Infamous Khomieni - The Arab

It is mind boggling to the civilized world that a nation, which not long ago, its leaders and people were held in the highest regards in the world has fallen in an abyss that has been historically reserved for those who for centuries have roamed the deserts of Saudi Arabia in search of moral justification for their animal instincts. It is hard to believe that a nation whose people set the foundation for what a society should consider to be "good" and "evil" has allowed itself to be dominated by one of the most evil forces (Islam) ever created by mankind (Mullah Mohammad). More importantly, it is incomprehensible to see how this evil force spreads its lies and deception throughout a nation time and again.

Those of us whose hearts ache by seeing the names of Kurosh, Daryoosh, Shahpur, and other Persian leaders who ruled Iran mentioned in the same fashion as the modern day Arab leaders of Iran such as Mullah Khomeini, Mullah Khamenei, Mullah Rafsanjani, and Mullah Khatami realize that unlike the first time when Mullah Omar fulfilled Mullah Mohammad's dreams of destroying the Persian Empire, this time around, the return of this evil force was brought to our beloved Iran by a much more clever force.

Those of us who have studied the history of our region have seen, time after time, the dirty hands of the British coyotes in not only shaping the politics of our region, but also in drawing and at times even rearranging the physical boundaries of the oil producing countries. We know how the strongest Bedouin tribe of the Saudi desert was hand picked by the British Petroleum to safeguard its interest in the newly created country of Saudi Arabia. We also witnessed the same creation in Kuwait, United Arab Emarat, Bahrain, Qatar, and to a certain extend in Iraq and particularly in Iran in the period leading to WWII. We know how Reza Shah's favorable Nazi sentiments led to his British imposed exile.

We remember the domination of Iran and its oil fields by BP during WWII. We can also recall the time when the true son of Iran, Dr. Mossadegh stood up against the British coyotes and forced them to acknowledge Iran's own will and sovereignty in determining its own destiny. We have not forgotten how in 1953, through a CIA coup, the rein of influence in Iran was handed to the Americans by the British, but not permanently. The British managed to keep and groom an important ace in the form of old ally at their side. It is no secret that for decades the British coyotes have enjoyed a very intimate relationship with the Arab Mullahs of Iran. The British have always been able to count on these religious whores to manipulate their naive followers into protecting the British Interest in Iran in exchange for securing a favorable position in the British government in particular and in Europe in general.

Did anyone ever stop to think why Khomeini was able to escape the mighty hands of SAVAK during the 1960s? Has it bothered anyone to think how a Shiite religious leader from Iran, a long time foe of Iraq, was able to find refuge in Iraq for thirteen years? Has it crossed anyone's mind how an illiterate whore like Khomeini was able to organize and implement such a massive uprising against the mightiest regime in the entire Middle East? More importantly, who moved his headquarters from Najaf to Paris in 1978? Are we really naive to believe that the Shah's powerful army was defeated by Khomeini and his band of thugs without any help from their oldest European ally, the British coyotes? Are we stupid enough to overlook the fruit that the British and other Europeans have reaped in Iran since the so-called revolution? Do we not see the billions of dollars that go to the European countries in the form of contract rewarded to them by the Mullahs of Iran? Do we ignore which country has been and is the most frequent visitor to the Mullahs of Iran? Do we not see how the European Union, led by the British, have ignored the cries of the Iranian children for justice and self-rule just as they did in India for nearly a century? Does Tony Blair, the self righteous leader of England have a leg on which to stand when he talks about the establishment of the so-called democracy in Iraq, when the leaders of his House of Lords are in Iran this week praising and negotiating new deals for the British industries?

Reza Shah's Bedroom

Wake up my friends and see the destruction and the manipulation of your minds by the European conquerors. Think about the reason(s) why someone like Reza Pahlavi is not seen favorably by the European countries. Is it perhaps because they don't see him as someone who can be influenced like his father was? Is it because he is another true son of Iran who only has the interest of Iran and the Iranian people at heart?

More to come!!
